

Teach | Lead | Innovate
Distance Education

College of Education

Distance Education Workshops

Are you curious about how the College of Education is utilizing technology to support teaching and learning around the globe?

Please join us for the following events sponsored by the Office of Distance Education (<http://distance.education.ufl.edu>):

October 16 (158 Norman) – Distance Education Conversation

12:00 – 1:00 PM

What is distance education? What services does the Office of Distance Education offer? What types of support, training, or opportunities are you looking for? Bring your lunch and join us for an informal conversation.

October 25 (G518 Norman) – Distance Education Showcase

3:00 – 5:00 PM

Come see examples of blended and distance education courses being offered through the College of Education. Meet with course authors, instructors, and educational technologists. Ask questions, poke around, kick the tires, and see how colleagues are managing teaching and learning online.

October 30 (G518 Norman) – Elluminate Demonstration

12:00 – 1:00 PM

Elluminate (<http://www.illuminate.com>) is an online conferencing application that is changing the face of distance education. Elluminate allows you to confer with students and colleagues around the globe in real time. Elluminate allows you to host meetings, present, and share content using voice and/or video in an online collaborative environment.

Join us for a live demonstration.

If you have questions, please contact Christopher Sessums at 392-0726 x297 or email me at csessums@coe.ufl.edu.