

Interconnecting PBIS and School Mental Health to Improve School Safety: A Randomized Trial

Statement of Work

Dr. Splett will provide overall direction and leadership of the research and implementation site at the University of Florida and Marion County Public Schools. She will oversee the UF IRB process, participant recruitment, and data collection at the Florida research site while supervising an advanced bachelor's or master's level project coordinator. In collaboration with Kelly Perales, ISF Director of Training and Implementation, Dr. Splett will oversee implementation of the ISF in randomly assigned study schools, including coordinating schedules, facilities, and any other resources needed to implement training, technical assistance and coaching provided. Dr. Splett will lead partnership building activities with Marion County Public Schools district and school administration. She will visit the South Carolina research site and study schools once yearly and attend project meetings via online technology and face-to-face as available and needed. With the PI, Dr. Splett will lead development of project reports, publications and dissemination activities and will assure communication with national leaders in school safety, juvenile justice, PBIS and school mental health as to the study's progress and outcomes.
