Phase 2: Identifying Predictors of the Successful High School to College Transition

This project collaborates with the Take Stock in Children organization to identify factors that support effective matriculation through high school and assist with the transition to college. The project will also develop a resource database that provides targeted and research-based interventions for supporting Take Stock in Children students. Additionally, the database will assist assigned mentors as they ensure Take Stock in Children participants are supported.