

FYC 6222 - PARENTING AND CHILD RELATIONS

Department of Family Youth and Community Sciences—Dr. Victor W. Harris Spring 2016

Course Description

The purpose of this fast-paced and engaging course is to develop in-depth knowledge and skills about healthy parenting practices and child-related outcomes. The course is open to all graduate majors and is perfect for anyone who will be working with, or advocating for, parents and children.

Coursework topics include:

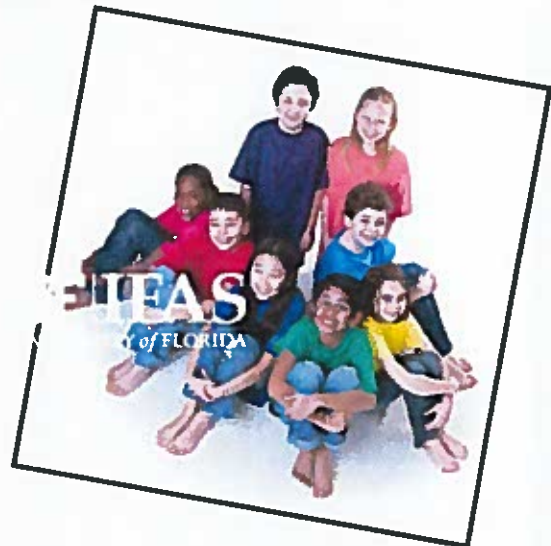

- ◆ Theoretical/Scientific Perspectives on Parenting
- ◆ Parents as Partners
- ◆ Parents, Economics, and Costs
- ◆ Transition to Parenthood, Toddlers
- ◆ Parenting Preschool and School-Age Children
- ◆ Parenting Adolescents and Young Adults
- ◆ Diverse, Multicultural Parenting
- ◆ Volatile, Difficult Parenting
- ◆ Children, Emotion, Morality, Religion
- ◆ Parent Education

Time: M 6-8 (12:50-3:50 p.m.)

Location: RNK 110

For More Information Contact:

ghenderschiedt@ufl.edu

What students are saying:

This is one of the best courses I have ever taken at the graduate level. I feel that I have improved as a student and as a professional as a result of this course and the interaction with Dr. Harris throughout the semester. – FYCS Graduate Student, University of Florida