

2nd Annual College of Education Research Symposium Keynote Speech:

Can We Have Dialogue When We Disagree?:
Exploring the Roots of our Educational
Culture Wars

Adam Laats, Ph.D.

Historian of Education from Binghamton University (SUNY)

Keynote Synopsis:

Conservative ideas about education seem stronger than ever these days, with calls for more religion in public schools, market-based reform, and weaker teachers' unions. In this talk, educational historian Adam Laats explores the roots of these campaigns. What has it meant to be "conservative" about education? And what can the history of educational culture wars tell us about today's tumultuous school politics?

Thursday, March 30, 2017

6:00-7:00pm

Norman Hall Auditorium

ALL ARE WELCOME!

UF | College of Education
UNIVERSITY of FLORIDA

Student Alliance of SAGE
Graduates in Education