International Development Internship
Early Childhood Education, Youth Development, and Women's Empowerment
Fall 2017

About TYO

Tomorrow's Youth Organization is an American non-profit organization that works in disadvantaged areas of the Middle East, enabling children, youth and parents to realize their potential as healthy, active and responsible family and community members. Interns will be based at our flagship center in Nablus (West Bank, Palestine) for the Fall 2017 session (Fall 2017 program may include September- December. Dates are subject to change).

Job Summary

We are recruiting highly qualified and motivated interns with interest and experience in:

- Community development, social work, and psychology
- Women's empowerment through education and economic development
- Early childhood and youth programming

TYO interns will work full-time in cooperation with TYO local and international staff. For the Fall session, interns are expected to implement programs for young children, their mothers, women entrepreneurs, and/or university students and youth from refugee camps and other marginalized areas of the Nablus community. Each intern will develop and implement their own creative lesson plans throughout the session.

Programs may include workshops and classes on professional competency for university students, English and IT classes for female entrepreneurs, sports, drama, English, and art for youth and children, community English classes, and weekend recreational activities. TYO interns will have the chance to grow and develop professionally throughout the program. Interns receive the on-the-ground experience of working in Palestine as well as the chance to work in the non-profit sector with an American NGO. Additionally, interns will develop Monitoring and Evaluation plans for their classes as well as learn professional reporting and blog-writing techniques. They will also develop key professional skills including:

- Communication and interpersonal skills
- Problem-solving
- Time management
- Flexibility
- Teamwork and cooperation
